For months and months their has been more or less trouble between the Kane and Ungemagh families residing in the lower end of the village, and a week ago last Monday it culminated in a row. Warrants were issued against Kane for entering Ungemagh's premises in the night time and stealing six English rabbits. He eluded arrest until Saturday evening last when he was secured by Conupon an officer and have them driven Pillsbury. His counsel Wilbur E. Harrison, Esq., waived the reading of the complaint, and an examination and furnished bail for Kane's appearance before the grand jury. While in court another warrant was served on a complaint chargng him with a violent assault upon Mrs. Ungemagh by the use of threats, and profane and valgar language. To this he pleaded not guilty, but after the ex-I'A stroll down Mountain Ave. and around amination of Mrs. Ungemagh, which through Elm street a day or two ago, re- showed that the affair was a quarrel beadorned with a new coat of paint under late he would, rather tuan go into and the direction of our well known painter extended examination and argument which might last until midnight, withdraw the plea of not guilty, and plead Mr. W.
